Challenges and Opportunities

FarmWorks Directors understand the challenges affecting the local food system and the opportunities that can result from investment in local businesses. After carrying out comprehensive due diligence mentoring and on-going support is provided to enable entrepreneurs to take advantage of opportunities from field to table. FarmWorks has become a go-to organization for food-related enterprises and seeks to collaborate with everyone helping to grow food-related businesses in Nova Scotia.

About one million Nova Scotians spend almost four billion dollars annually on food and beverages, at home and away from home, and only about 15% of the ingredients are grown and processed in Nova Scotia.

FarmWorks encourages people to buy fresh, healthy, seasonal food when they can. Every dollar spent on local food is an investment in our present and our future.

Attraction and retention of dynamic food entrepreneurs, such as those supported by FarmWorks, supports the growth of associated businesses and provides economic, social and environmental benefits across NS and beyond.

FarmWorks has provided over $7 M in capital and mentors and promotes food-related businesses. More new applications than ever are being received. The successes of our clients indicates the potential for greater investment to increase food entrepreneurship in NS.

FarmWorks sincerely thanks the Shareholders whose confidence in Nova Scotian producers provides the opportunity for the Directors to support outstanding people who are providing excellent food and beverages. Please let us know if you might consider joining the Board so you can work more closely with farmers and producers in one of the most encouraging fields in Nova Scotia.
